WOMAN WITNESS NAMES "TOM" QUIGLEY

Mrs. Samuel Berger, wife of one of the defendants, the first woman witness in the Chelsea rum conspiracy trial in Federal Court, testified today she was told by "Tom" Quigley, brother of the Chelsea Mayor, that she would have to pay money to sell liquor. This statement, according to the woman, followed a conversation she had with Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley, one of the defendants.

Edsel Ford's Air Signs
The Good of the Service
Poor Old Sam. He's In Non-Voting Stock

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1926, by the Star Company)

IN A FEW YEARS thousands of young men will take up flying as a profession. And, beginning immediately, there will be in the United States thousands of signboards telling fliers where they are, and what the town is.

AT THE REQUEST of Edsel B. Ford, head of the Ford automobile factories, Ford agents all over the country will paint on the roofs of their garages information for air fliers.

That begins "marking out the air ways."

NEW YORK STATE draws up "air rules" somewhat in advance of the need. Troopers, on the ground, of course, are to see that aviators keep to the right and stay sober. Let any pilot turn to the left, up in the air, and the commissioner of motor vehicles, now made into "commissioner of aircraft," will revoke the pilot's license to use New York's State air.

The road of clouds is rather wide, but perhaps it isn't too soon to begin making rules. "Stunt" flying over cities, towns and crowds is forbidden. That is sensible.

SPAIN MAKES a public holiday of October 7, birthday of Cervantes. They honor the great writer who has made the world laugh and think, and made ancient "chivalry" ridiculous.

Such a holiday is more appropriate than many observed in honor of fighters that killed many men and made others mourn.

However, colleges must adapt themselves to prohibition. It's here, and will remain until college boys of today have long gray whiskers.

'GAMBLING' WITH U. S. FOR DIAMOND TRUMPS TO COST MAN $250,000

St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 29 (A.P.)—Lieb Ritterman of Antwerp, Belgium, told United States Collector of Customs Whitehill today that he had "gambled and lost," and the seizure of $250,000 in diamonds he was attempting to smuggle into the United States probably would bankrupt his firm in Belgium.

Ritterman, a native of Poland, is 26. He said he was employed by a firm of Antwerp jewelers, but refused to give its names. The customs duty he sought to evade by bringing the jewels through Canada would have been more than $40,000. He told Collector Whitehill he was to get $500.

64 POCKETS OF GEMS.

The diamond seizure was made when Ritterman was awakened from his berth on the Washington express from Montreal after he had been allowed to pass the customs inspection at the border. Beautifully cut stones, the largest weighing a fraction more than four karats, were found in his traveling case in the baggage car.

Sixty-four packages of smaller stones were found among his belongings, rolled in his socks and in his pajamas pocket. The largest ones were in a can of talcum powder.

Ritterman insisted this was his first attempt to smuggle diamonds to America, although he had made several trips to this country. He said it had been decided that the easiest way to bring them in would be to have them mailed to Canada, pay the Canadian duty, which is considerably lower than that of the United States, and smuggle them across.

U. S. MAY SELL ALL.

He was greatly surprised when told of his every movement for the last four days. Four Federal officers were passengers on the train and he had talked to one.

He said he saw small chance of giving high bail and asked Whitehouse if he could not be given a cleaner place of confinement than the Franklin County Jail, where he was taken.

The diamonds now are the property of the United States and it was considered likely a public auction of them would take place here.

WOMAN DIES IN CRASH N. H. JUDGE'S AUTO

Hanover, N. H., Jan. 29.—Mrs. Mildred Freey Lebanon was killed when an automobile in which she was riding plunged over a 25-foot embankment. Judge Fred A. Jones, former Speaker of the New Hampshire House of Representatives was the driver of the car.

Mrs. Elder Johnson of this town was also a victim, and she is suffering from bruises and possible internal injuries at the Hanover Hospital.

A second man who was in the car disappeared after the accident and was located hours later by police in John E. Eames of Littleton, president of the Interstate Amusement Company. He was serving on a jury in Lebanon.

Judge Jones is at his home under a physician's care for a wrenched back.

Jones is justice of the Lebanon Municipal Court.

At the hospital it was said Mrs. Johnson's back was broken in the crash.

Judge Harry Burton, Dartmouth College Latin professor, will preside at an inquest into Mrs. Freey's death.

Police declined to give any details of the case or to say if any action would be taken against the driver of the car.

MAYOR CALLS FOR BIG BOSTON IN CENSUS

To make Boston the fourth largest city in the country, Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols today urged consolidating the population figures of the city, cities and towns of the metropolitan district.

It was his first appearance, as mayor, before a committee of the Legislature.

The Mayor admitted that if his plan was put into execution, it will be a decisive step towards a metropolitan city.

"I want to see a metropolitan city and I expect to see one," he said.

He told the committee that there ought to be no objection to the bill as it carries out in name what everybody knows to be a fact.

The Mayor was not in favor of taking from the various municipali-

CARLON AID O'KEEFE IDENTIFIED AS 'BAGMEN' IN CHELSEA RUM CASE

Mention of the names of Neddo" O'Keefe and "Dutch" Henry, as additional collectors and a laughable battle of wits with Attorney John P. Feeney featured the testimony today in Federal Court of Louis Zimall of Blossom street, Chelsea.

Testifying in the rum conspiracy trial of Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley of Chelsea and 7 others, Zimball said he paid money to "Eddie" Carlon, fraged bagman, and to O'Keefe and Henry, for protection.

Zimball said he was forced to pay $100 a week to obtain protection for his moonshine business, and when he protested that it was too much, was told he would be forced out of business.

The crowd which has turned out each day for the trial, was swollen to such proportions by yesterday's sensational testimony that it broke the spes barring the doors of the courtroom today.

So intent was the throng on forcing its way into the courtroom despite the fact that every seat was taken, that court officers were called on to use force in keeping the room clear.

Zimball, who said he was in the moonshine business for several weeks, manufacturing mash in a barn he rented from "Joe" Alpert, a previous witness, was on the stand for the greater part of the session.

He testified that rather than pay the $100 demanded each week, he stopped the manufacture of hootch, and opened a store in which he sold it. The rent him $60 a week, the witness testified.

Cross-examined by Attorney Feeney, Zimball sent the spectators into gales of laughter again and again by his answers to questions.

In his direct examination the witness positively identified Carlon as the man to whom he paid $100 a week for protection, while in the moonshine business in Chelsea in 1922.

Later when asked to identify O'Keefe the witness blundered when the wrong man stood up.

Attorney John P. Feeney of counsel for the defence then had the real O'Keefe rise, and Zimball identified him, explaining his eyesight was bad and he had been unable to see the first man clearly.

The witness said he paid Carlon three weeks, and that O'Keefe collected money from him for protection for a year and a half.

Dutch Henry, he testified, made a visit from him on a contribution toward the Chelsea election in 1924.

SAYS HE WAS "WARNED."

Zimball and Henry demanded $100, but the witness told him he could not afford so much. He quoted Henry as saying that unless he paid $100 he would not "stay in the moonshine business."

Samuel Berger, one of the defendants who has pleaded guilty positively identified Carlon as the man to

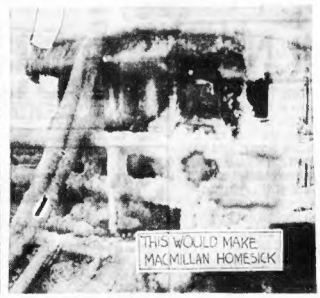
NATIVE COURAGE SHINES BRILLIANTLY UNDER GRUELLING ORDEALS OF FIRE AND FROST

When Eugene Brunelle, now six months, grows up and hears tales of heroism by the fairer sex, he'll be sure to pipe up with "Sho's my aunt." Grace Morgan, 18, who is holding him, got young Gene out of the house at No. 739A Winthrop avenue, Beachmont, today.

Another view of the trawler Comber which may answer the question of some of our sturdy New Englanders of the passing generation as to why the present day product is not anxious to go to sea. Frank Perry, a Dorchester man, is just tidying up the pilot-house and mighty glad he's doing it tied up at the pier.

"Billy" Brunelle of twenty-four tender months will want to be a cop like every other lusty lad in a few years. Patrolman James F. Dooley of the Revere force will undoubtedly be his model, inasmuch as "Jim" not only saved "Billy," but risked his life in going back into the house



One cannot kick at the high cost of fish after glimpsing this pilot-house of the trawler Comber as she docked at the Fish Pier today. And the Comber's decorations were rivalled by every other incoming craft. Together with the gale it was one of those nights that the poor sailor needs all the help he can get.

Mrs. William Brunelle, together with her husband and two children, were driven from their home at No. 739A Winthrop avenue, Beachmont, early today by a fire that swept up from a store below.

TWO GIRLS ARE HEROINES OF GREATER HUB FIRES

The fire is believed to have started from a defective chimney. Flood smelled smoke at about nine after breakfast and went up into the attic to investigate.

As he opened the door billows of pungent smoke rolled out and he reeled back choking.

Racing downstairs he awakened Wicks in passing, then dove under in gulps and came up into the attic again. Here the smoke overcame him and he collapsed into the flames that were eating, too, for their meal.

Wicks, climbing to the attic to aid in fighting the fire, found Howe blazing and dragged him west. Soon he got out the flames with his hands and then carrying the unconscious man down to the freezing air.

Girl and Cop Rescue Beachmont Children

A 17-year-old girl and a policeman rescued two children early today in a fire in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Brunelle, No. 739A Winthrop avenue, Beachmont.

Through the blinding smoke rushing up from the store below, Patrolman Dooley battled his way into the freezing street.

Seventeen-year-old Grace Morgan, aunt of Eugene Brunelle, six months old, and William Brunelle, 2 years old, was awakened by Dooley and carried him to safety, while Williams was being carried out by Patrolman James F. Dooley.

Despite the fact that he was almost unconscious from the fumes of the smoke he inhaled during his flight up the stairs, Patrolman Dooley insisted upon re-entering the burning house to make sure that no one was still trapped in the flames.

The fire started in the cellar under of Charles T. Sardak on the ground floor of the three-story frame building.

The loss is estimated at about $30,000.

General Alarm for Lynn Lodging House Fire

A general alarm was sounded for a fire which destroyed the home of James Lodging, 55, at 15 second, Summer street, Lynn, today, and for a time threatened the adjoining lodging house district.

One woman was rescued on the top floor of the three-story wooden structure, and carried down a ladder by Fireman William Green.

Mrs. Elsie Lamb, rescued John Blythe by safety from a window on the second floor.

Nearly a dozen inmate in the West Junior School were prepared to leave immediately should the fire spread. The school is in the rear of the lodging house.

There are many rooms in the house, but most of the tenants were at work, and the few within save the rescued women, were warned in time by Louis Dimodoky, who discovered the fire.

Five sheds in the street rear were burned out and the other structure was badly damaged. The loss was estimated at $10,000.

Servant in Hysterics at Newton Blaze

Royal A. Taft, his wife and two children, and a maid were forced to flee into the biting cold early today when fire, starting in the cellar, swept the building at No. 21 Cottage avenue, Newton. A fireman was injured in a falling gutter.

Smoke awakened Mr. Taft, who roused his family. Anna Walsh, the maid, whose room was on the second floor, became hysterical. Her screams aroused Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kelly, neighbors, who helped her to leave the building before the flames had cut off a retreat.

A high wind balked efforts of firemen and a second alarm was sounded, bringing all available apparatus in the city. Foreman James Keyes of Box No. 54 was struck and knocked down by the gutter. Damage is estimated at $15,000.

Woman Overcome, 3 Flee Parker Hill Fire

A woman was overcome by smoke and three other occupants were driven out today when fire broke out in the basement of a three-family house at No. 208 Fisher avenue, Parker Hill. Mrs. Annie Doherty on the first floor collapsed and was saved by Patrolman Joseph Dolan.

Doherty roused two other tenants on the second and third floors and turned in an alarm. Damage is estimated at between $2,000 and $4,000.

Save Seven in a Fall River Fire

Fall River, Jan. 29.—Lives of seven members of the family of Abraham H. Zinn were imperilled early today when fire broke out in the Zinn home in the Highland section while a fierce gale raged and the mercury hovered a few degrees above zero.

All were asleep when the fire started.

Several members of the family, including two children, were carried to safety.

Abraham Zinn, who lives near by, hurried in his automobile to go to the assistance of his brother's family. He crashed into another car and was caught beneath the overturned auto. While he was extricated firemen said he had suffered a possible fracture of the skull. The occupant of the other car escaped unhurt.

The blaze, situated in the highest part of the city, was destroyed with loss estimated at $50,000. The gale fanned the flames, which, spreading rapidly, impeding the rescue work of the firemen. Policemen fought their way through the flames to carry two small children to safety.

Two horses were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a barn owned by the Fall River Coal Company at Cohoo and Bond streets today. The damage totaled $2,000.

A boiler blew out in the furnace at Nathan Miller, No. 302 Grove street. Nobody was injured, but considerable property was damaged in the resulting fire.

Worcester Bottling Plant Burns; Loss $25,000

Worcester, Jan. 29.—Fire that started in the rear of the two-story frame building occupied by the Whistle Bottling Works, destroyed the structure and contents early today, causing a $25,000 loss. A 50-mile gale was blowing and so fanned the flames the firemen were powerless to save the building, which contained a quantity of explosive much used.

Chapel Ablaze in St. Ann's Church, Somerville

Fire today threatened to destroy St. Polycarp's chapel of St. Ann's church at Jaques and Temple streets, Winter Hill, Somerville.

The flames started in a closet in the basement and the firemen moved pictures, statues and varied lights in the main church upstairs, fearing the flames would destroy them. The fire, however, was confined to the basement. Damage was estimated at $500.

Wollaston Girl Saves 2 Children From Flames

The heroism of Miss Ruth Stanley, twenty-two, saved two children from death today when a fire in which two firemen were hurt, swept the home of Roy Sidelinger in Summit avenue, Wollaston.

Miss Stanley, a sister of Mrs. Sidelinger, carried two of the Sidelinger children, one and three years old, to the front porch. Flames had cut off all exits. Mr. and Mrs. Sidelinger escaped by dropping from a back porch. Miss Stanley dropped from the front porch.

Fireman James Barton, Jr., suffered a broken toe when a heavy timber fell on him. Patrick Crowley's right hand was frozen. The loss was $15,000.

2 Boys Save Malden Woman; 8 Kiddies Are Rescued

An eighty-year-old woman and eight young children were rescued in two Malden fires today.

Mrs. Mary Doherty was carried down two flights of stairs by William Longina and William Dowd, boy neighbors, when flames swept through her home at No. 96 Emerald street.

In Linden square eight children were saved and five adults fled out into the zero weather in their night clothing.

Patrolman Thomas J. Burke, Cornelius F. Doherty and J. A. Morrison roused the tenants and carried out the children.

The rescued were Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kirbe and their four children, Mary 12, Margaret, 9, Louise, 6, and Edward, 3; Mrs. and Mrs. George Livingstone and their two children, George, Jr., 6, and Fred erick, 4; Mrs. Elmer Hendrick and her two children, Elmer, Jr., 6, and Doris, 4. The loss was estimated at $2,000.

struction to those who go down to the sea in ships.

Temperatures were sent scurrying zero-ward. The gale, advance guard of the fearful cold wave, tore a path of ruin on land and sea. Dread fire followed in the wake of the rockets of cold, and there is no promise of surcease.

While Boston is gripped in seen weather the city is tropical in comparison. Nantucket, with 36, Albans, Vt., where the mercury descended to 32 below.

Atop the Federal Building in Boston, where the official mark was four degrees above zero at 7 a. m., the forecaster sent out word that the wave will last through tonight and tomorrow, with the added threat that it may increase in intensity.

However, the gales that caused such havoc have passed on, according to the expert.

Ships are facing to welcoming havens and ports over thousands of charted and uncharted courses in the effort to flee the cold and blasts.

There is no point on the map which escaped the storm's invasion. In the Great Lake district army plans were sent out to give aid to men on stricken craft and Chicago was gripped in zero weather accompanying fires.

In New York the gale attained its maximum fury, shrieking through the streets and out into the suburbs at a velocity of eighty-four miles an hour. Firemen, who did yeoman work in fighting the quick series of blazes that followed, found their helmets frozen to their heads and shoulders. The mercury hovered about 4 above zero.

At St. Paul and Duluth the mercury fell to nearly 30 below zero, but suddenly, as though the triple threat-eners had reented, there came a southerly wind which caused a decided rise in the thermometers and the promise of relief for the section.

Cities and towns near Boston reported practically zero weather. Worcester, 2 above; Salem, 3 above; Winthrop, 2 below; Beverly, 2 below; Somerville, zero; Arlington, 2 above Bedford, 4 below.

While the local forecaster offered no promise of a let-up in the bitter cold, from Washington comes news that is more reassuring. While tonight will remain cold throughout New England, Washington predicts a rise in temperature for tomorrow.

The coldest spot in North America is in Doucet, some 200 miles Northwest of Montreal, where the mercury dropped to the fearful figure of 56 below zero.

Lotta Crabtree's "Daughter" in New Fight

The Lotta Crabtree will contest in one of its many ramifications come before the full bench of the Supreme Court today when Mrs. Ida W. Blakenberg petitioned that she be permitted to enter a late appeal from the decision of Judge Prest of the Suffolk Probate Court striking her name from the list of contestants.

Mrs. Blankenberg claimed she was Lotta's daughter and her claim was denied after a sensational trial.

She was found guilty of perjury and is now out on bail pending appeal from a jail sentence on this charge.

Her counsel, John J. Cummings, said no notice of Judge Prest's decree striking her name from the list of contestants had been given Mrs. Blankenberg or her counsel, and they knew of no such decree until the time for filing an appeal had expired. The Supreme Court took the question under advisement.

SUICIDE SHORT $62,738

Leominster, Jan. 29.—The accounts of Robert L. Carter, city clerk, tax collector and treasurer, were at least $62,738.43 short when he committed suicide on January 12, State auditors reported to the Mayor today on a checkup of Carter's books, covering back to a year after Leominster was incorporated as a city.

The auditors say the shortage may be greater when that first year is checked.

Four days after the audit was begun, Mayor Doyle reappointed Carter to his three offices. On the night of January 11 he served as clerk at the City Council, but did not go home when the meeting was ended.

Later his body was found in a brook not far from his home and he was adjudged a suicide.

NIGHT CLUBS VICIOUS, SAYS MRS. TILTON

Firing a verbal broadside at night clubs, the liquor traffic and "vice" all over the country, Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton of the State Anti-Saloon League demanded reforms and protective organizations to enforce them, at a meeting today of the Council of the Federation of Women's Church Societies of Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Mrs. Tilton's speech followed a luncheon at the Century Club at No. 3 Joy street. Mrs. Tilton charged that night clubs are creating a restricted vice area.

DARING RESCUE AT SEA BARED BY CAPTAIN

New York, Jan. 29 A.P.)—Captain George Fried, commander of the United States liner President Roosevelt, radioed today the first detailed account of the heroic rescue of the crew of the Antinoe, in which he attributed the success of his high adventure to the radio compass, which enabled him to reach the sinking freighter when that ship had given her position 100 miles wrong. Captain Fried formerly lived in Worcester, Mass.

From a message to the United States line, telle the story of the rescue. In part, he said:

"Received SOS from steamship Antinoe on 24th. Proceeded to position by radio compass bearings, which proved position one hundred miles in error. Alongside her noon in violent snow squalls. High, rough seas. Pumped oil overboard with excellent effect. Her captain claims this saved them sinking.

"When lowered lifeboat violently hall assault hit us. Sea proved too rough for lifeboat. Men rolled out out of boat, but managed to get back. Covered with fuel oil, exhausted. Ordered men aboard assisted by life lines. All recovered except Wireman, master at arms; Heltman, boatswain's mate.

"Antinoe distress signal indicated perilous situation. Attempted float line to her by old Lyle gun. Got boat to her, but she lost it. Tried floating cask. Failed.

"Fired Lyle gun again and rocket line to her. When they hauled in, line cut on their rail. Lost boat. Fired Lyle gun sixteen times; line carried away near projectile frequently.

"Lowered manned lifeboat successfully, took off twelve men. Boat badly damaged. Aided by moonlight took remainder of crew aboard."

ties their identities or rights as separate cities and towns.

"Before any consolidation could be established there should be a referendum in all the cities and towns affected," he said. "Previous to this referendum it might be well that an investigation be made to see if annexation would be mutually beneficial.

The various activities of such a metropolis could be administered by a council taking jurisdiction of the interests of the district as a whole, he thought. Although he was not prepared at this time to advocate it, he said, a metropolitan police force could be created. The Mayor of Boston, he said, might well be made chairman of all metropolitan boards, including Elevated trustees. He assured the committee that the Federal census authorities would credit the consolidated population figures to Boston, if the law was passed.

"It would make Boston the fourth city in size in the country," he said. "It would be surpassed only by New York, Chicago and Philadelphia. It would give this city an identity among the great cities of the United States and the world which it does not possess now."

Attorney Felix Rackemann, representing Milton, opposed the census consolidation.

LEVIATHAN SAILS FOR HUB TO GET SPRING SCRAPING

The steamship Leviathan left New York today for Boston to undergo her regular spring overhauling program. She will go into drydock and after her hull and bottom have been inspected and painted she will return to Hoboken, N. J., for completion of repairs. The Leviathan will sail for Southampton and Cherbourg on March 20, her next scheduled trip.

SHALIT'S WIFE SCREAMS "LIE" AT WITNESS

LAWYER SAYS SHE PLANNED TO REWED

Love Plaintiff's Ex-Counsel Tells of Consultation; Case Near End

Portland, Me., Jan. 29.—Another moment of excitement was given spectators today in the Shalit $250,000 alienation suit, when Mrs. Alice White Shalit of Brookline created a disturbance in the courtroom on the eve of the case going to the jury.

Leaping to her feet while her previous counsel was testifying, the young wife shouted out "Lie" at him. She was warned by the court that another outburst would bring her dismissal from the room.

Mrs. Shalit, daughter of a Boston lawyer, is suing her mother-in-law, Mrs. Annie R. Shalit, sister of Hiram Abrams, movie magnate, for $250,000, alleging that the latter alienated the love of Dr. Harold M. Shalit for his wife.

CASE NEARS END.

The jury was expected to have the case before nightfall for decision as to whether the mother-in-law witted the roses or if Alice dropped her own castles out of the air deliberately.

It was during testimony today of William H. Gulliver, one of several lawyers that have been dismissed by Alice that she became perturbed.

Gulliver testified that on September 6, 1924, Alice and her mother, Mrs. Barnett White of Brookline, came into his office and said that Alice desired a reconciliation with Dr. Shalit, young Portland dentist.

"Then the talk swung over to separate support, later progressing to an alienation of affections suit and then divorce, Gulliver said.

The lawyer declared he asked Alice if she had been attending dances during the separation and if she intended marrying again if she got the divorce she was contemplating.

PLANNED TO REWED.

"Of course I have been to dances and of course I will marry again. I don't intend to remain single," he said Alice told him.

Leaping to her feet from a seat at the back of the courtroom, Alice cried out:

"That's a terrible lie."

Chief Justice Scott Wilson, presiding, rapped angrily and ordered the wife to be quiet.

"If you make another outburst, I will order you from the room," he admonished.

BOY SEIZED IN AUTO THEFTS

Mystery surrounding the misappropriation of automobiles in Hyde Park, was cleared today, police say, with the arrest and confession of Edward J. Alexander, seventeen. Alexander was arrested on a charge of misappropriating the car of John J. Kent of No. 61 Warren avenue, Hyde Park.

The youth, who lives in Beacon street, confessed, according to police, to taking several cars for joy rides. He will be arraigned in West Roxbury Court.

Cars have been missing nightly from the section, police say, but nearly all of them were returned. One car was found in the woods.

FIRE SWEEPS HOME OF WILLIAM HODGE, ACTOR

Greenwich, Ct., Jan. 29 (A.P.)—Fire destroyed the home of William Hodge, well known actor, at Round Hill today. The loss was estimated at $50,000. Mr. Hodge is playing in Philadelphia and Mrs. Hodge was home with the servants. It was Mrs. Hodge who first noticed smoke, which was traced to a blaze in the kitchen. With assistance of neighbors and the servants Mrs. Hodge took most of the furniture out of the house.

M'READY UP 36,000 FEET IN TRYING FOR RECORD

Dayton, O., Jan. 29.—After reaching an altitude of approximately 36,000 feet, Lieutenant John A. MacReady was forced to descend at 12:10 p. m. today, due to the supercharger on his plane failing to function properly. The flier showed no ill effects of his experience. He had tried to make new record.

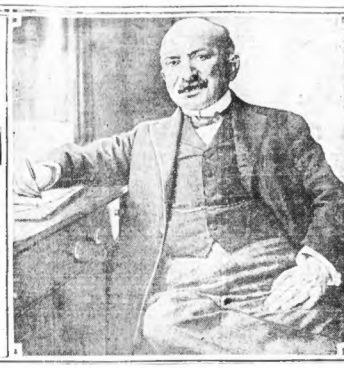
HUMMEL'S MYSTERIOUS AVERSION FOR FAMILY TIES DROVE BOY FROM HOME

Abe Hummel, notorious New York criminal lawyer, was deficient in marital affection, but devoted to his two sisters, one of whom is shown above. They were his constant companions. Hummel wedded Lelia Farrell, an actress, from whom he separated a short time afterward.



Above is shown a photograph of Hummel at the height of his career, when, as a member of the firm of Howe & Hummel, he was the confidant of clients in all stations of life and through them coined great wealth which he spent on his selfish pleasures. Henry Hummel, the son, says Hummel sent him a weekly check until his marriage to Carrie Page, of Portland, Me.

Henry Hummel, bakery wagon driver at Portland, Me., who says his mother's marriage was kept secret and who claims estate to vindicate his mother.

Mrs. Charles T. Dodge, whose divorce, prior to her marriage, Hummel tried to prove illegal and which made him defendant in a perjury trial.

Above is a scene on Welfare Island and when Hummel left the prison there his days as a practicing lawyer were over forever. Disbarred and shunned by former legal companions he went to Europe where he lived and died in exile. He will be buried in New York.

HEAD OF POLICE CHALLENGES O'BRIEN

District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien unloosened a hornet's nest about his head when he said before the Florence Crittenton League that "there is some police corruption in Boston, and prohibition seems to have demoralized the police force."

Today Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson was the first to hasten to the defence of Boston's finest, and incidentally himself as head of the force.

"I don't believe in entering any controversy with any public official," said the commissioner. "The public is well aware of my own record, and I have nothing to conceal. If I had any information that there is corruption in the police department I would take immediate steps to remedy any such condition.

"On the other hand, the district attorney has the grand jury at his right hand every minute, and if there is corruption in the Boston police department it is up to him to clean up the force without hesitancy."

JUROR AND WITNESS TALK; NEW TRIAL IS ORDERED

The trial of three men charged with maintaining a bucket shop was taken from the jury by Judge McLaughlin in Superior Court today because a juror had talked with a government witness in the case. The judge said he was convinced there was no wrongful intent on the part of the juror or witness, but he considered justice demanded a new trial. Charles Deal, Achilles DeSalvo and George Alexander are the defendants.

CHICAGO BEAUTY IS OPERA DANCER

Helgna Samuels, a native of Chicago, leads the ballet of the Chicago Civic Opera Company. As premier danseuse she has won favorable comment by her own poetry of motion and by her superb qualities of leadership.

CHARGE FATHER OF 7 KILLED WOMAN

Five days of investigation culminated today in the arrest of Manuel Serpa of East Boston, father of seven children, charged with the slaying of Mrs. Clara Rosen in East Boston late last Saturday or early Sunday.

He was arraigned before Judge Barnes in East Boston Court and pleaded not guilty to a charge of murder. Hearing was set for February 3 and he was held without bail.

Mrs. Rosen, recent actress and separated from her husband for five years, was found dead on a couch in her home, No. 51 Prescott street, and had been in a furious battle according to the police.

Aside of her injuries was a tiny wound on the head, the type of wound left by a glass stiletto, once a favorite type of murder instrument because the razor-sharp blade could be snapped off beneath the skin, leaving a barely perceptible mark.

Several men known to have been acquainted with her were held as witnesses and were closely questioned as to her mode of living, and the identity of her companions.

As a result of the investigating Serpa was arrested today at his home, No. 28 Pope street.

Sergeant James W. Lewis of the East Boston station made the arrest, climaxing an investigation that disclosed, the authorities assert, Mrs. Rosen had been selling liquor manufactured by Serpa.

FRIENDS POOL CASH TO AID LEGAL FIGHT

Portland, Me., Jan. 29.—Friends today came to the aid of Henry Ahlo Hummel, bakery cart driver, in his fight for the fortune of the late Abe Hummel, lawyer and notorious mentor of New York's underworld who died recently in London. Henry claims to be Hummel's son.

Without financial resources, Hummel was powerless to begin his battle until a move was begun to enable him to finance the legal action. A private detective agency, employed by the business of the organization with headquarters in Chicago, was angered by the news that a London member of the deceased Hummel asserts that the latter never had a son.

Hummel went over his family records today and produced letters and photographs which he says will establish beyond doubt his claims. One of the photographs shows Henry, his mother, Lelia Farrell, noted movie singer, and the latter's brother, Mrs. C. J. Jefferson, and Abe Hummel. The opera singer and her mother have lived in Portland. Both are dead now.

One of the letters written on a letterhead of the law firm of Howe & Hummel, New York, reads:

"Dear Mrs. Jefferson:

"Tomorrow I leave for Europe to be gone about two months. I enclose money for June and July, and on my return in August will send you the August money.

"Yours faithfully,

"A. H. HUMMEL."

Hummel, who also retained Stateoff Here."

Wife Missing

Mrs. Claire L. Mook, from whom Louis F. Mook, Hub furrier, obtained a decree nisi of divorce in Middlesex Probate Court, has not been seen since January 20. Their son, Buddy, whose custody the father was awarded, also is missing.

Senator Hinckley as counsel, in an exclusive interview told the Boston Evening American that the famous criminal lawyer used his powerful influence to have the birth records burned. Unpleasant incidents between him and the elder Hummel, he said, led him to believe that Abe Hummel did not want the relation ship known.

"On his last visit to New York to see Abe Hummel, Henry declares," the lawyer told him:

"Get to hell back to Portland where you belong—you are better

GIRL HEROINE IN BLAST; 3 HURT AT CHELSEA

Three men were injured today when a huge vat of acid exploded at the plant of the Boston Blacking Company, Third and Carter streets, Chelsea. Only the heroism of Louise McCourt, stenographer, prevented the casualty list from being much longer.

William Linehan, No. 121 Williams street, Chelsea; Michael Fahey, Fellaway East, Malden, and Kenneth Dethoff, Fuller street, Malden, were working near the great tub of acid when the explosion occurred.

They were tossed into the air and then were stricken by the streams of liquid that poured from the vat.

The men were horribly burned about the face and hands. They were removed to the Chelsea Memorial Hospital.

Miss McCourt of No. 1156 Bolston street, Boston, was hurled from her desk-chair. She ran out in time to see the river of searing acid pouring out through the plant.

The girl dashed out into the main part of the building, only a few feet ahead of the lifting stream of acid, and called out her warning to the other workers. Some were overcome by the fumes.

Two lieutenants and two firemen were carried from the place, victims of noxious fumes, almost before they had begun to fight the flames.

Lieutenants Sullivan and Hurd led their men into the building, through which, by this time, the fumes had penetrated into every corner, and the two officers fell before they had advanced a dozen yards.

The fire was quickly extinguished.

HERE'S HOW "DOLLY," FIRST NOTABLE FLAPPER, DID HER STUFF

When "Dolly" Madison was mistress of the White House, she was a veritable queen of hearts; clever, with personality plus, she helped her husband in his political manipulations.

Like the modern feminist, she believed in the power of personal attraction, and was not averse to the use of cosmetics to heighten, artificially, her personal charms of face and figure.

And "Dolly," proponent of the modern girl who loves thrills, had a continental love for the Goddess of Chance, which she, with the elite of the European nobility, gratified at the green tables.

To all of which Mrs. Harry Colman, of the Susan B. Anthony foundation, takes exception. Rupert Hughes believes Washington was no saint. Mrs. Colman is sure Dollie Madison did not merit a halo.

RICH GIRL WEDS EX-HUSBAND

New York, Jan. 29.—Miss Muriel Borden, daughter of Mrs. Mathew Sterling Borden, will be remarried at Greenwich, Ct., tomorrow to Philip Dobbin, whom she first married four years ago and divorced three years later.

Miss Borden's mother, who married the late Dr. Matthew Sterling Borden, millionaire "Scallop king," while he was a student at Yale, was divorced and three years later again became his wife at Worcester, Mass., admitted today that her daughter was about to repeat the example.

CONFESSED RUM MAKER PAID $100 A WEEK FOR 'PROTECTION'

CHELSEA MAN SAYS 'EDDIE' CARLON COLLECTED FEE

whom he paid $100 a week for two weeks.

Joseph Alpert, another defendant, who said he made moonshine, and that he paid Carlon money for protection, had failed to positively identify Carlon as the man to whom he paid the money.

Berger said he is a real estate dealer, that he lives on Garfield street, Chelsea, and that he has an office at No. 1 Everett avenue, Chelsea.

Questioned by Assistant District Attorney Elling Stone:

Q—What were you doing in the Summer of 1925? A—I was in the liquor business.

Q—What was the nature of the liquor business? A—The manufacture of intoxicating liquors.

SAYS HE PAID CARLON.

Q—During what months? A—June, 1925.

Q—Alone? A—No, I had a partner, Sam Gerscovitz.

Q—Where was your place of business? A—On Auburn street, Chelsea.

Q—Tell the court and jury how you came to get into the business. On objection this question was stricken out.

Q—Who did you most after you decided to go into the liquor business, if anyone. A—I met a fellow named Goldberg.

Q—What was the result of your conversation? A—I went to see Eddie Carlon in June, 1925.

Q—Where did you meet him? A—In Chelsea square.

Q—Tell us the conversation? A—I told him we wanted to put up a business to make moonshine liquor on Auburn street, and I wanted to get protection. I should not be harmed by the police department. He said yes, I could get protection for $100 a week. I said, "Mister, I couldn't afford it"; but afterwards I decided I should give him the $100. I gave him $100 in ten dollar bills after I got going.

Q—Do you see Mr. Carlon, the man you paid the money, in the courtroom? (Carlon stood up on request.) The witness promptly identified him as the man he paid the money to and discussed protection with.

Attorney Stone persisted in asking questions while Carlon was standing after the identification. On the objection of Attorney John P. Feeney Judge Brewster said Stone was going a little too far.

Q—How big a plant did you have? A—One still.

Q—How much moonshine did you make a week? A—About sixty-five gallons.

Q—You were operating how long? A—Eighteen days.

Q—You were raided by Federal officers the third week? A—Yes.

The witness then testified he stopped the business and paid no more money to Carlon for manufacturing moonshine.

Q—What did you do afterwards? A—I didn't do anything for about six or seven months. Then I opened a store at No. 43 Williams street.

WANTED $50 A WEEK.

Q—Did you see Carlon after that? A—Yes, he came to the store. I didn't invite him.

Q—What did Carlon say? A—He asked me what I was doing here. I said, "Cheese, cigarettes, groceries."

Q—What did he say? A—He asked me was I selling liquor, and I said, "Only a little." He told me it would cost me $50 a week.

Q—What did you reply? A—I said I couldn't afford it. I would close up.

Q—What did you do then? A—I went home and told my wife about it.

Q—As a result of your talk with your wife, what did you do? A—I closed the store for a while, then my wife went in and took care of the store and I went to work.

In cross-examination of Berger by Attorney Feeney, the witness was asked:

Q—Are you the Samuel Berger convicted in Roxbury court on October 8, 1921, of the larceny of ten gallons of whiskey? A—Yes.

U. S. Attorney Herbert L. Williams objected to this. Attorney Feeney argued it was designed to attack the credibility of the witness. Williams' objection was overruled.

GRILLED BY FEENEY.

Q (By Feeney)—Are you the Samuel Berger convicted of conspiracy under the National Prohibition Act in the U. S. District Court in Boston in October, 1925? A—Yes.

U. S. Attorney Herbert L. Williams objected to this. Attorney Feeney argued it was designed to attack the credibility of the witness. Williams' objection was overruled.

Q—In that case, when you took the stand in defense and pleading not guilty, did you testify that you never sold liquor in Chelsea? A—No.

At this point Feeney attempted to introduce evidence at the trial in question. After a conference at the bench he had the transcript aside.

Q—In the case now being tried you are named as a defendant, are you not? A—Yes.

Q—When did you first talk with any member of the prosecuting staff in this case? A—A week ago last Friday.

Q—Was it a week ago today that you told Mr. Thompson about Eddie Carlon? A—Yes.

Attorney Feeney next asked the witness whether or not, after he changed his plea of not guilty to guilty on the opening day of this trial, if he didn't talk with Federal Agents Katz and Goldman in the corridor outside the courtroom. The answer was "No. I talked with Sam Gerscovitz, my partner. These two men were standing near."

Q—Your place on Auburn street, where you made this moonshine, did nobody live next door to it or anywhere near it? A—Yes, somebody was around there, but I don't know who they were. (Then the witness said there were no buildings or houses nearby.)

Q—Describe this Auburn street place to us? A—I don't know. Gerscovitz was there.

DIDN'T MAKE ANY BOOZE.

Q—You were never there? A—Ah, yes, where?

Q—I mean were you at this Auburn street place? How many times were you there? Don't you know anything about it? You said you were going to make moonshine there. What was the rent of the place? A—Fifty dollars a month.

Q—Did you know whose place it was, who owned it, who you paid the rent to? A—I don't know.

Q—You don't know about this place where you say you made the whiskey? A—I never made any. I just took it out of there.

Q—Did you ever see any liquor made while you were there? Who made it? A—Well, I went there Gerscovitz was there. I saw him standing there. He wasn't making it with his hands.

Q—Was he making it? Are you sure about that? A—Well, he was watching.

Q—Was anybody else there when you went there? A—No.

Q—Where did you take this liquor to, when you carted it away from this place? A—To a place on Fourth street, to a man named Schwartz.

Q—Did you sell all the stuff you took away to Schwartz? A—Yes.

Q—The other defendants in one of the cases in which you were found guilty, were all fined except you? A—(Objection by District Attorney Williams. Overruled.)

WAS "EXPECTING FAVORS."

Q—Wasn't your partner Sam Gerscovitz found guilty? A—No answer.

Q—Wasn't he found guilty and sentenced to two months in the House of Correction and fined $500? A—Yes.

Further objection by the Government on this line of questioning, but Feeney started another question along the same line. This was also objected to and Feeney addressing the court said:

"I want to show this man expected favors from the government. He was not sentenced and the others were."

The Court: "That is no guarantee that he will get them. You may go on."

Q—You didn't know you were indicted in this case until a week ago Friday? A—No.

Q—You were never required to give bonds in this case? A—No.

Q—Did you know you are under another indictment, a third one? A—I don't know.

Q—Did you take an appeal from the conviction? A—I don't know.

Q—Did you let your counsel go, Mr. Feeney? A—He's got my money, $500. I gave him $500. I thought he was going to file an appeal. I don't know about the appeal.

WANTED TO ESCAPE JAIL.

Q—Did you talk with Lewis about the fact that you weren't going to be sentenced? A—I asked him he should try and keep me out of jail.

Q—And you know now you were indicted with Mayor Quigley in this case before a week ago Friday, to-day? A—No, not until last Friday.

The next Government witness was Louis Zimbalt, of No. 85 Bosworth street, Chelsea, who testified, under direct examination, he had lived in Chelsea twenty years and in 1922 had a lunch room in that city.

Questioned by U. S. Attorney Stone:

Q—When did you go into the moonshine business? A—About August, 1922.

Q—What did you do to enter the business? A—I went to see Joe Alpert.

Q—As a result of that visit what did you do? A—I went to see Eddie Carlon. I told him Joe Alpert would give me a place.

Q—Any further conversation with Carlon? A—Yes, on Broadway, in Chelsea square. I asked Carlon to give me protection to make moonshine, and he said he would let me know in two or three days.

WAS TOLD "TO GO AHEAD."

Q—When did you next see Carlon? A—Near Bellingham station in Chelsea three days later.

Q—What did he say then? A—He said everything would be all right.

Q—What did you say? A—I said I can't pay you for two or three weeks.

Q—What did he say? A—He said that will be all right. Go ahead and pay me $100 a week after you get going.

Q—What did you do as a result of that conversation? A—I put a place in Joe Alpert's place. It was at the back.

Q—You rented the barn? A—Yes.

TELLS OF PAYING CASH.

Q—What next did you do? A—I put in 35 mash barrels, a big 200-gallon still, three stoves, a cooler and pipes.

Q—Then you made moonshine? A—Yes.

Q—Did you see Carlon after you got started? A—Yes, he came down to Alpert's place in a couple of weeks on a Friday, and I gave him $100.

Q—How did you pay him? A—In cash.

Q—From whom did you get the money? A—From Joe Alpert.

Q—How much did Carlon get altogether that night? A—$200, $100 from me and $100 from Alpert.

Q—How long did you do business there? A—Three weeks.

Q—Were you raided by the Chelsea police? A—No.

Q—After the three weeks what did you do? A—I did not make any more shine for some months.

Q—And after that what did you do? A—I bought a store towards the end of 1922.

Q—Where was the store? A—In Chelsea on Broadway street.

Q—What did you sell in the store? A—Groceries and moonshine.

Q—How long did you run the store? A—Two years, about.

Q—Did you make any payments to Carlon in the store? A—One.

Q—What did Carlon say? A—He said, "It will cost you $50 a week." I paid him for protection for three weeks.

NAMES "NEDDO" O'KEEFE.

Q—When did he come? A—Every Friday night.

Q—Anyone present when you paid the money? A—Yes, my son and some other people.

Q—What did Carlon say to you the last time he came to your store? A—Carlon said the last time that he would not come again, that Neddo O'Keefe would come.

Q—Did he come? A—Yes, he did next week on a Saturday between 12 and 1.

Q—Did you pay him money? A—Yes, $50 a week.

Q—Did he continue to come? A—Yes, for a year and a half, every Saturday.

Q—All that time were you bothered by the Chelsea police? A—No.

At this point Assistant District Attorney Stone asked the witness if he could identify O'Keefe in the courtroom. Witness said he could. One of defence counsel turned to rear of the courtroom and told O'Keefe to stand up. A man arose and Zimbalt said: "That's O'Keefe."

Stone was continuing his direct examination when he was interrupted by Attorney Feeney, who arose and addressed the court.

"Your Honor," he said, "we must have this matter straightened out." Turning to the rear of the court he asked O'Keefe to stand up. This time another man declared to be the real O'Keefe, stood up. The witness then said: "Well, my eyesight was not very good. I couldn't see him from the stand."

AIDED ELECTION FUND.

Attorney Stone then approached the witness stand to escort the witness to the side aisle so he might get a good look at the real O'Keefe remarking: "We will not take any chances."

The whole defence counsel chorused: "Objection," to the statement. Stone attempted to withdraw the remark, but it went into the record with defence counsel objecting.

Q—Do you remember the election in Chelsea? A—Yes.

Q—Did you make a contribution to the election? A—Yes, in 1924.

Q—Who came to see you about that? A—Dutch Henry.

Q—Where? A—At my store.

Q—Did you have a conversation with him? A—Yes.

Q—What was said then? A—He said "Everyone is giving for the election," and said I should give $100. I said "I can't afford it"; but I gave him a check for $50.

Q—What else did Henry say A—He said, "If you don't give $50 you won't stay in the moonshine business."

Q—What did you say? A—Argued with him and I gave him a check for $50.

Q—Can you produce the check A—No.

WITNESSES NAME CARLON AS 'BAGMAN' IN RUM CASE

Q. (By Feeney)—You were raided by the Federal officers in 1923? A.—I don't know the date. I was raided. I'm sure of that.

Q.—How much liquor did they find? A.—They didn't find much.

Q.—They searched carefully, didn't they? A.—Wait a minute now, I want to tell the truth. They found 150 gallons of stuff the first time, and only a pint the second time.

Q.—Mr. Stone convicted you on that occasion, didn't he? A.—All right, go ahead, go ahead.

Q.—Did he try to send you to jail? A.—I don't know what he did.

Q.—You pleaded not guilty, didn't you? A.—I am not guilty.

Q.—Judge Brewster imposed a sentence in the House of Correction for 30 days on April 25, didn't he? A.—I don't remember the date.

GOOD LUCK" TO FEENEY.

Q.—What do you think about serving this sentence? A.—So help me God, if I have to serve it, I'll serve it!

Q.—Weren't you called Gimbel or Zimball at that time? A.—I told you my name is Zimball. I don't know what they called me. If they want to make it a G I can't help it.

Attorney Feeney questioned the witness further regarding his name and Zimball replied: "Good luck to you."

Q.—Oh, good luck to me, eh. And as you were sentenced to three months? A.—Three months. One month, you mean.

Q.—When you were questioned before about a conviction, that was for something that happened in New Bedford, wasn't it? You didn't tell me it was New Bedford, did you? A.—You didn't ask me.

Q.—Ah, that was my mistake. How many barrels did you have at that time? A.—I didn't have any.

Q.—Referring to the raid where they found the pint of liquor in your store, where did they find the pint? A.—In my boy's coat pocket.

Q.—Did you have it hidden there? A.—Huh?

Q.—Did you use your boy to carry liquor? A.—No.

Q.—Well, what was the liquor doing there? A.—The coat was hanging there.

HID BOOZE IN YARD.

Q.—Did you have a place outside where you stored liquor? A.—Yes, out in another yard.

Q.—Whose yard? A.—I don't know.

Q.—How much did you have hidden out there? A.—About ten gallons.

Q.—You paid the owner for hiding the stuff in his yard? A.—I did.

Q.—Was it hidden in the bushes? A.—No, it was in a room, a box.

Q.—Was the box open? A.—It was closed in the daytime. At night I took it in the store.

Q.—So when a customer came in for a pint, you'd go out and get it? A.—A pint? Oh, pints, gallons, everything.

Q.—Did you ever sign a lease with Frank Goldman? (Defendant.) A.—Never.

Q.—Did you have a quarrel with Goldman and tear it up? A.—No.

Attorney Feeney then asked one of the Goldmans for a paper, which was produced.

Q.—Now, didn't you hire a building in the rear of No. 228 A street from Frank Goldman? For what?

Q.—Anything. A.—I hired a building there.

WILL "TELL BIG STORY."

Then, Attorney Feeney holding a paper:

Q.—Didn't you sign this paper? (Here tear your name off!) A. (the witness leaned forward.)—Go ahead, you'll be sorry. I'll tell a big story.

Q.—Oh, you're going to do it, are you? You're going to throw the hooks into me? All right, go ahead, go ahead, you'll be sorry. I'll tell a big story.

Q.—This you consider only a piece of paper, is that right? A.—Just a scrap of paper.

Q.—Who went out and got the whiskey from the backyard when you wanted to sell it? A.—I didn't get it. A little kid.

Q.—Who was the kid? A.—I don't know. He was a kid.

Q.—You mean to tell us you didn't know his name? A.—Sam.

Q.—When someone came in and wanted liquor in your store, you sent out and he got it from the backyard. Is that right? A.—Go ahead. I paid him $15 a week.

Q.—You wouldn't use your son to do this work? A.—Oh, no, he worked in another store, you know.

The cross-examination of the witness Zimball was continued by Attorney Feeney after recess, as follows:

Q.—During the time that you were manufacturing moonshine, in Alpert's barn, were you raided by Federal prohibition officers? A.—No.

Q.—You only had the barn three or four weeks? A.—Yes.

Q.—When cars were making the moonshine in Alpert's barn, were you running the store? A.—No.

Q.—How long after you closed the barn did you open the store? A.—Six or seven months.

Q.—Do you know the Federal officers who raided you in the store? A.—Yes, Semple and Walsh.

Q.—Were you in the store when they came? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you take the stuff out of the store? A.—No, they broke up the still and put the stuff in the sink.

Q.—How long afterwards after that when they came again? A.—About a couple of weeks.

Q.—Have they ever bothered you after that second raid? A.—No.

GERSOVITZ ON STAND.

The next witness was Sam Gersovitz, who testified that he was employed by Carlon in the store at No. 228 A street. Charles was also employed in the market at Brighton.

Q.—Were you employed in the store in 1923? A.—Yes, I was there with Alpert.

Q.—What kind of business? A.—The moonshine business.

Clubs Are Used to Curb Crowd at Rum Trial

So insistent were the hundreds who were anxious to get into the trial room to hear the proceedings in the "Chelsea Rum Ring" trial, that they forced through the two stout ropes that guarded the two entrances, though there were no seats inside, and the court officers were forced to use their long batons to drive back the surging throng.

It was far and away the largest crowd that has yet attended, or attempted to attend, the trial.

15 WOMEN AMONG 290 TAKING LAWYERS' OATHS

Fifteen women were among the new lawyers admitted on motion of Judge Crosby in supreme court yesterday to take attorney's oath and receive a list of advice from distinguished jurists.

"You should be careful," said Justice Pierce, "to keep your temper and not get excited. It is not a used article, it is unique in many respects, and you have the sympathy of many."

All the applicants had passed the examination last June, but were delayed by the recommended inquiry because some of the applicants were alleged to have secured copies of questions prepared by the board of bar examiners. Evidence of fraud is soon to be presented to the Grand Jury of Suffolk County.

TURNED RUM QUEEN TO AID HUSBAND

A stenographer who turned to booze and the loss of her husband.

And trust him to relate how England.

Mrs. Stone doesn't believe every day. For, it doesn't sounded herculean. Nevertheless, she has done it.

That is what makes the story of Hilda Stone so compelling.

Hilda, desperate to help her husband out of a night scene in his cabarets, became a bootlegger to the tune of $1,000 a week. She distributed liquor, and in so doing, made many friends among the underworld characters in the city and used the records of all the cases.

And now a Federal prisoner in a Vermont jail, outlawed after an exciting chase at the gun point, after drifting with seven aliases nights for months, she has confessed.

Her confidences were told to a friend, but she says she is "no Song Sing" for having unloaded her soul. She sets forth in prose in her own words, which she calls sentences.

The first chapter of this gripping story by the so-called "Duchess of Alcohol" will be published in the Boston American on Monday. Mrs. Stone tells of graft and of her many hair-breadth escapes.

After making her sensational statement, Mrs. Stone wrote the following letter to the editor of the Boston Evening American from Washington, where she is now living:

Montpelier, Vt., June 25, 1926.

Editor Boston Evening American:

This is the first time I have given an interview or been photographed since my arrest. I consented to visit with Inez Ford of your paper in order to make my position clear to the public and to deny the false statements made about me and my family. Regardless of what may be said about the case, am extremely sorry I ever set foot in Canada.

Very sincerely yours,
(Signed) HILDA L. STONE.

American Beauty

Fay Lanphier, winner of the beauty contest at Atlantic City, and called "Miss America," will be the star in John Murray Anderson's beauty review at the Metropolitan next week.

FAY LANPHIER TO APPEAR IN BEAUTY REVUE

Winner of Atlantic City Contest Stars at Metropolitan Next Week

The most beautiful girl in America is coming to Boston. Her enthusiastic press agent, Jeff Lazarus, of the Metropolitan, says also that she is the most widely known girl in the country.

Fay Lanphier, winner of the recent national beauty contest at Atlantic City, and who also is designated generally as Miss America, will arrive Sunday night with other members of John Murray Anderson's company making up "the American Beauty Revue," the stage attraction at the Metropolitan next week.

Miss Lanphier is a Californian. Following her successful achievement with the judges of the Atlantic City beauty review, she was selected by the Famous Players-Lasky picture people to star in a film called "The American Venus." Her personal appearance at the Metropolitan next Monday will be as the principal player in the John Murray Anderson stage revue.

KEEPING IN VOICE

EVERY singer and public speaker knows the necessity of keeping the voice clear and resonant. It is not necessary for this purpose to use lozenges and pastilles containing drugs which must be used with caution, and are often objectionable in their taste and odor. Allenburys' Glycerine and Black Currant Pastilles have a delicious flavor and may be taken freely without causing any harmful effect.

the army will be accepted, "for the good of the service." There will be solemn truth in that, although the "wicker chairs" may not realize it.

When Mitchell gets out of the army he will do some useful, plain talking that will wake up the United states sleepy defense department and compel it to interest itself in flying machines and in men that fly.

And that will be for the good of the service.

UNCLE SAM is in the water now, the troubled waters of European quarrels, bickerings, jealousies and hatreds. When he comes out, which he will do before long, he won't feel friendly to those that pushed him in, the international financiers that would like the United States to guarantee their loans to Europe sentimentalists and pacifists, who think they can keep out of war by going across the ocean and inviting trouble.

A COLLEGE GENTLEMAN criticizes the custom of selling to the public stock that doesn't vote, while insiders keep for themselves a small amount of stock that does all the voting and controls the corporation absolutely.

That isn't necessarily a thing to weep over. Nearly all big corporations are controlled by a minority interest. The buying of stock is often based as is steel, on public confidence in the man at the head of the corporation.

Corporations now are so big that few, if any, working executives can afford to control one of them. A plan that enables a competent man to protect the interest of the stockholders to whom he has sold stock, putting them beyond the reach of a corner, is not such a bad plan.

ELIHU ROOT, one of the ablest lawyers in the country, says the "bloc" system in the Senate is a disgrace. He objects to Senators who represent farmers uniting in the interests of the farmers.

"Revival of interest in national parties is the only cure for the disgrace," according to Mr. Root.

HOW WOULD YOU go about reviving interest in the National Democratic party, for instance?

And what about the financial bloc, the original bloc, dating back a couple of generations, that has inflated, blocked, and put through more legislation than all other blocs combined? Nobody seems worried about that bloc, perhaps it is "respectable."

A SCHOOL TEACHER admits beating small boys with a rubber hose, because "the boys cannot be controlled by other methods."

If the same teacher whipped adults with the same hose, the teacher would go to jail. Why should cowardly beating of school children receive immunity?

A teacher unable to control children without the aid of a rubber hose should find a job digging ditches, or better, picking oakum.

VODKA, RUSSIAN name for whiskey, has come back with a rush. The Bolsheivik government will produce this year 75,000,000 gallons of vodka, 40 per cent. alcohol; five million gallons of brandy and other liquors, 60 per cent. alcohol.

The government monopoly will earn a profit of about $175,000,000. We spend more than that here, trying unsuccessfully, to prevent the sale of alcohol.

A CUT IN TIRE prices is predicted, and tire dealers protest against "downward revision to car producers."

The public should protest against methods of retailing in tires and some other things. That the consumer should pay ten dollars or more for having the tire handed to him by a retailer is preposterous.

Distribution costs too much.

'SALLY O'NEILLS' OF HUB MUST HURRY

Here's Sally O'Neill, of screen fame, and heaps of presents await the Boston girl picked as her double. The contest ends midnight tomorrow. Hurry!

'SALLY O'NEILL' WINNER TO GO ON STAGE

In every nook and corner of Boston, apparently, there is some girl who believes that she resembles Sally O'Neill, the star of the comedy film, "Mike," which comes to Loew's State Theatre next week.

Hundreds of pretty girls are sending in their photos with every mail.

And to add to the furore comes Joseph Brennan, manager of the theatre which will house "Mike," with the announcement that the winner will be offered a Loew theatrical contract that will carry her from Boston to the Pacific in a blaze of gold and glory.

Leading Boston merchants are prepared to equip this envied girl with every requirement of the theatrical wardrobe. The Paine, Trimming Company, with offices in the Dexter building, will give her a pair of Barney satin toe-dancing shoes.

The Prince Furniture Company of No. 716 Washington street will present her with a Lane red cedar chest in which she can pack her wardrobe without fear of the incursions of moths.

Thresher Brothers of No. 19 Temple place will give her a silken lingerie outfit.

Jack Klaff of Klaff & Mack, No. 8 Winter street, will present her a Northern seal jacquette, the latest rage.

Arthur Wallace, famous shoe man, with stores at Nos. 447 and 672 Washington street, will give a pair of his high-class shoes.

The millinery department of Shepard's will present a "Sally O'Neill" creation, a wonder gown.

Butler's, Inc., of No. 90 Tremont street will provide some of its exquisite Allen A. chiffon hosiery.

Summerfield's Furniture Store, No. 733 Washington street, has a surprise gift for her.

And the fortunate miss will receive $50 in gold from the Boston Evening American, while the two girls who are awarded second and third places will receive $25.

Mail your photographs in now to the "Sally O'Neill Editor" of the Boston Evening American.

NAVY MAN S51 CRASH PROBE WITNESS

Submarine Commander Had Talked Over the Radio With Craft Just Before Collision

Lieutenant Commander Morris J. Leahy, in command of the United States submarine S-50, was chief witness today in the resumed hearing on charges of negligence against two officers of the City of Rome which collided on September 25 with the lifted S-51, which sunk with a loss of 33 lives. The hearing is being held in the Appraisers' Store building in Atlantic avenue.

Captain John Diehl of the City of Rome and Captain Timothy Dwyer, 3rd officer, are charged with negligence.

Commander Leahy testified he was in communication with the S-51, sister ship of his submarine, on the night of the disaster. The S-51, he said, had left Pa has at New London for a test run in Long Island Sound. Commander Leahy said he was ordered to pick an area for a test run where the traffic was light and that the captain of the S-51 acted likewise.

His first knowledge of the collision he said, came next morning, when he was ordered to go to the aid of the S-51.

He had talked with the commander the S-51 on the preceding night by radio telephone, Commander Leahy said, but there was no exchange of courses.

JORDAN MARSH WORKERS CLOSE JUBILEE

Today, last big day of the Jordan Marsh Company "Diamond Jubilee," is fittingly dedicated "Fellow Worker" day, and will consist of a program by employes of the store in the Assembly Hall.

The entertainment will open with a prelude by the Jordan Marsh Corrupany orchestra, Alan H. Southard, conductor, with several popular numbers and the "Diamond Jubilee March."

Vocal selections will be given by Miss Loretta Horan, Mrs. Helen W. Magoon and Joseph Aiela, the latter featuring "Da Sole Mio" and "Non o' Vor," in Italian.

FAVORITE SONGS.

The Flavelle sisters are to render several duets including their favorite "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

Jas. Caldermood

An instrument trio with John J. Smith at the piano, Gerard A. Duffy on the violin and Allan H. Southard with saxophone will be another feature.

Miss Marjorie Sumpter will dramatize the well known recitation, "Planning Hampers," following which the orchestra is to give several selections of operatic numbers and old time waltzes.

The program will end with a grand finale by the Jordan Marsh Choral society, of which James W. Caldermood is conductor.

LAST PROGRAM.

Under his direction the society has grown popular for its work during the past few weeks of the jubilee, drawing much comment from patrons who attended the entertainments in which it worked. He is also an author and composer and conducted the show "Miss Jordan Marsh" three years ago.

The performance of the Moscow Art Ensemble was moved to the larger Assembly Hall to accommodate the attendance. The program of Russian folk songs, vaudeville and dances was well received.

Miss Nina Sergeyeva, premiere danseuse, participated a humorous dance and assisted the Balalaika quintet in a playlet, "Wedding Feast in Russia."

While Saturday will be the official close of the jubilee, today is the last day of entertainment and the fellow workers of the store are agog with excitement, waiting for their favorites to appear.

Saturday Only!!

ANTON LANG, JR. GOING TO H. C.

Anton Lang, Jr., Twenty-one-year-old son of the famous Anton Lang, who plays the part of Christ in the Oberammagau Passion Play, will enter Holy Cross College next September.

The young man, who is at present studying at the University of Munich, has specialized in English, and has been planning to visit the United States in order to complete his education in that language. After his graduation he intends to rtur to Munich and tach in the university.

J. J. Ward of Medford, a friend of the family, and a visitor to the Lang home every Summer, states that the youth will probably return to America with him in the coming Summer, and then proceed to Holy Cross.

Young Lang is the second oldest son of the well-known Passion Play artist.

WANTS COTTAGE FARM BRIDGE ABOVE AVENUE

A restudy of the location for the new Cottage Farm bridge between Cambridge and Boston was urged today before the legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs by Vanness Bates of the Metropolitan Improvement Association. He declared it a mistake to bring the bridge at grade on Commonwealth avenue. It should be carried over the highway, he said, and if continued to Brookline, it should be carried over Beacon street. Henry L. Harriman, chairman of the metropolitan planning division, said the Legislature has fixed the sight. He recommended no change in the plan.

ICE IS IDEAL FOR GOLD SKATE RACERS

The prayers of the skaters of Boston were answered, and accordingly ice speedsters are sharpening up their runners in preparation for the eliminations tomorrow at Sullivan square playground in the Boston Evening American's Gold and Silver Skate Jubilee Races.

Interest in the Charlestown gala event has aroused interest among skaters all over the city, and daily the windows of the Wright and Ditson store, Washington street, and at "Classified Corner," Summer and Devonshire streets, are lined with youngsters who cast covetous eyes at the gold and silver skates on exhibition.

For a time it appeared that the Charlestown eliminations might have to be postponed just as were those scheduled for Franklin Field last Saturday, but the weatherman relented and sent the mercury scutting downward.

Remember that the winners in each class on Saturday receive silver skates in addition to getting a chance at the gold and silver ones to be given to the winners in the final races.

Hurry in with your entry blanks. There is an entry blank accompanying this article and others can be obtained at the Sullivan square playground.

All Charlestown skaters who wish a chance in the finals must compete in Saturday's eliminations, while skaters from the North End and West End have their choice, either of competing Saturday or waiting for the elimination to be held later in East Boston.

The races will start promptly at 2:30 tomorrow, so it will be best for all contestants to be on hand by 2 o'clock. During the intervals in the racing there will be on hand a quartet of nationally known fancy skaters and a clown skater.

Even the skater the least familiar with Boston cannot miss finding the Sullivan square playground easily enough. Simply take a train in the tunnel or the El for Sullivan square and there is the sheet of ice spread out beneath you.

The classes: 220 yards for boys under 14; 440 yards for boys under 16; 880 yards for boys under 18; 440 yards for girls under 18; 880 yards for girls over 18.

BIG HUB FIRM TO BROADCAST DAILY

Following its policy of being among the pioneers, the Houghton & Dutton Company, will open a broadcasting studio at their store on Tremont street the latter part of February, to be operated in co-operation with Station WEEI of the Edison Light Company.

This new studio will be the last word in radio construction. The walls are to be of glass, so that the patrons of the store may view the method of broadcasting from beginning to end. Needless to say, the equipment will be of ultra modern type.

It is believed that the feature of having transparent enclosure will be greeted enthusiastically by the public, the majority of whom, have never seen a broadcasting station in operation.

The programs to be put on the air will be of high standard. As this studio has been planned for some time by a group of experts at the Houghton and Dutton and Edison Companies, the most desirable type of entertainment will be afforded.

Houghton & Dutton will broadcast on every week day.

Executives of the Houghton & Dutton Company believe that their new studio will represent the best of the present methods to bring their store before the public and give enjoyment to their patrons.

New England fans then may listen for a new station about the end of next month. Excellent programs are promised by officers of the Houghton & Dutton Company, and, with the well-known reputation that WEEI already enjoys, there will be a treat in store for the listeners.

Progressiveness has marked the career of the Houghton & Dutton Company since its foundation. The beginning of this firm dates back to 1843, when S. S. Houghton opened a general store in Hanover street. In 1872 it was founded as a partnership and the first department store in New England.

From the very first stages of this partnership pioneering in all lines began. It was the first to adopt new advertising methods, as well as new selling and merchandising plans. Its advertising policy really antedated the partnership.

Newspapers are on file in the store's records showing the aggressive advertising as early as 1874. That was a time when business unscorned advertising as beneath their dignity. The Houghton & Dutton Company also introduced the innovation of women clerks, something never heard of up to that time.

NEIGHBOR SAVES AUTOIST FELLED BY MONOXIDE GAS

Out in Dedham there's a neighbor of Robert Carey who may ride to work in Carey's car just as often as the neighbor wishes—Sundays and holidays included, even if the neighbor has to work and Carey doesn't.

The neighbor, who rides to work some mornings with Carey anyway, saved his life today when Carey warmed up his car so well that he almost cooled himself off permanently.

Carey, who lives in Reed street, left the garage doors closed while he took a sit of the chill out of the motor. Half an hour later, when the neighbor appeared to ride to work with Carey, the latter was unconscious.

Prompt work on the part of the neighbor and Dr. Clarence M. Kelley brought Carey back, together with a pounding carbon monoxide headache.

HUSBAND'S BOASTS WIN DECREE FOR GIRL-WIFE

The story that her divorce-seeking husband boasted of unfaithfulness and refused to support her won Vera Ann Doten, strikingly pretty, a divorce from Wilbur Scott Doten, both of Concord, in Middlesex Divorce Court today. Doten did not contest the suit. She testified they went to Acton to live with his people, but when she returned to Concord to her parents' home he refused to support her. She pleaded with him, she said. Her people, she said, bought the clothes for their baby, Jean Maryllis.

A Live Serial of Love and Temptation Right Here In Boston

READ THIS FIRST:

FLOSSIE and MARY ROSE MIDDLETON are two pretty sisters, the daughters of a widowed mother. They work for Dexter & Co., big Congress street bond firm.

Mary Rose is secretary to JOHN MANNERS, the sales manager, and is in love with him. But he's engaged to DORIS HINIG, an heiress. Because of her feeling for him, Mary Rose repeatedly refuses to marry DR. TOM FITZROY.

Flossie, a born vamp, is carrying on a flirtation with the head of the concern, HILARY DEXTER, although she's engaged to his secretary, SAM JESSUP. When she's not out dancing with Sam, she's "joy riding" until all hours with Dexter.

John Manners begins to show his interest in Mary Rose. He takes her home to introduce her to his mother, and the two become fast friends. Finally he tells Mary Rose that he loves her and always will, whether he marries Doris or not.

The two sisters quarrel and to get even, Flossie tells Manners that Mary Rose is "just stringing him along" and really intends to marry Tom Fitzroy. Mary Rose wonders at his sudden coldness toward her, and thinks he has made up his mind to forget her.

MRS. DEXTER finds Flossie's gold vanity case in her husband's car and when she comes to the office to tell him she's going to divorce him, she finds Mary Rose taking his dictation and accuses her, within hearing of the entire office force, of trying to steal Dexter from her. Flossie begs her sister not to let any one know that it was she who left the case in Dexter's car on one of their frequent rides together, because she's afraid that if Sam Jessup learns the truth he won't marry her. So Mary Rose takes the blame, and stands all the snubs and slurs from the girls at the office, in the hope that Sam will marry her at once and get away from Dexter.

The office force gives a Hallowe'en masquerade and Dexter, whose wife is out of town comes. He and Flossie, along about midnight, "ditch" the party and go for a drive. Dexter makes love to her and becomes unmanageable.

To Savannah, G. A.

Written at the dinner given by the Savannah Line to the Boston newspapers, at Boston City Club, January 26th, 1926. Words by W. M. Morgan.

(To the tune of Rosie O'Grady)

We're strong for Savannah,
'Way down in old Georgia way,
Where the girls are the fairest
Of any old town 'long the way.
We're strong for Savannah,
Where we are happy and gay,
We'll stick together in all kinds of weather
In dear old Savannah, G. A.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

IN Grandmother's house things are shabby and worn, all the tables and sofas are minus the varnish, the curtains are faded, the cushions are torn with the passage of year after year. The window-whitewash with shells pink and white, there are chairs of a mode long gone by, there are musty old books, yellowed through with time's blight, there are rose-petals, withered and dry. To the stranger who comes glancing carelessly around, it may seem but a shabby old place; but in truth, here in Grandmother's house may be found much of loveliness, beauty and grace. For each threadbare old chair and each tattered old book has a charm that is lent them by time. Here the memories of lovers vows hallow each nook and the echoes of songs faintly chime.

HOW long the weary world has toiled, what centuries were spent while men kept climbing, year by year, still upward, ill-content still upward, through primeval mists, blind, groping, strange, afraid; yet upward, upward all the way with ever firmer tread. How futile sometimes, seemed the fray, what odds remained to fight! But still man strove, with aching force on, to greet the light! There was no hint in those dim years of splendid things to be, exalted heights to be attained, new power and majesty, no whisper whispered to his soul that woke an answering spark; some urge still drove him up and up from regions vague and dark.

Embarrassing eruption on face disappears when Resinol is used

Hadley, Mass., May 23.—"For some time I had been troubled with an eruption on my face which nothing I tried seemed to relieve. I had read about it and decided to give it a trial. For a while I bathed my face every night with warm water and Resinol Soap and then applied Resinol Ointment. At the end of that time the eruption had entirely disappeared. I cannot praise the Resinol products too highly." (Signed) Lillian Hull.

FOXY GRANDPA'S DAILY BEDTIME STORY

By Foxy Grandpa

BOBBY stood up on tip-toes and peeked into the little basket which hung on Elizabeth's Christmas tree. He writhled up his little form and then he smiled.

"It's an egg in there," he announced.

"Chicken's egg," explained Elizabeth peking her little turned-up nose into the basket, too.

"Who was Speckle?" asked Bobby.

"Mother's pet chicken, she had when she was a little girl," replied Elizabeth.

"And you have kept this egg all these years?" asked Bobby in astonishment.

Elizabeth's mother looked at me and smiled. It didn't seem so long to her.

What color was Speckle," asked Bobby.

Speckled," of course answered Elizabeth.

Did you ever see her?" continued Bobby.

No," replied Elizabeth, but Mother can tell you about her."

Instantly the two children were by Elizabeth's mother's side and then she told them about Speckle.

"I was a little girl," she started "much smaller than my Elizabeth is now, and it was Easter time and when the Easter bunnies came to our house they brought me a little basket and in it was the cutest, fuzziest little chicken you ever saw."

Bunny winked his pink eye at me at this point and the lady continued.

"Well, Speckle grew and grew her as we would have a pair or a kitten. We used to dress her up in dolls' clothes, and it would have laughed if you could have seen her following us around in hesitative with the empty sleeves of our jackets flopping with each step.

"And when we had tea parties we used to set a place at the table for Speckle and put her in a little stuffy chair and she would peck daintily at and she would peck daintily at bits off of the plate in front of her and then turn her head to one side as if to say, 'Delicious.'

"How you would have laughed if you could have seen me sitting in my doll's carriage covered up with a blanket, as I hurried her up and down the front lawn. People used to stop and look at Speckle.

"But the time came when Speckle grew to be such a big fat hen that she was looking to keen to the city, and my mother said that she would be much happier in the country with my grandmother. And that we could always see her just the same, and that she would make a good home.

"So to the country she went. But Speckle wouldn't associate with the other chickens very much and would not roost in the chicken-coop with the rest of them. Every night she came to my grandmother's door to put her to bed in her rabbit as I had done when she was a tiny child. And every time she would, she would get into the house.

"One day a messenger came to our house—with a telegram. Even when I was a little girl people

OTTO KAHN has threatened to build a new theatre for grand opera in which gallery patrons will actually be able to see the stage.

What a terrible blow at grand opera!

Of course, the downstairs patrons are already able to see the stage.

But downstairs opera patrons don't often look at the stage.

By the way, the little theatre movement has reached the point where a playhouse is being constructed to hold only 15 people.

Complete success will be attained when the little theatre is only large enough to hold the author.

WHO'S WHO AND WOT OF IT?

This is Neuvills McCumpkey, little theatre dramatist, whose new play, "The Bill ous Bride," will be presented in a telephone booth at the Vendome Hote next Friday night. Her husband has promised to attend, and if he goes through with his pledge, the house will be sold out.

INSURANCE BY GROUPS IS PRAISED

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

President J. F. Lorce of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, in his annual report to stockholders, says that group insurance is a good thing for employees and employers alike.

J. F. Lorce

President Lorce says the Delaware & Hudson has found group insurance a success. Four years ago it began to substitute for employment insurance. Accidents and sickness among employees, death and retirement of employees are covered against. Lorce believes that group insurance tends to stabilize employment, reduces labor turnover, and is much more economical than if employees had to pay the premiums themselves.

The year 1925 marked for the New Haven Railroad the 100th anniversary of freight service. In commemoration of this event a history of the road was published, full acknowledgment to the commissioner of statistics and insurance for the information contained in the report for the year 1925.

I hear that an agreement of merger between the National Shawmut Bank and the Old Colony Trust Co. is expected to be announced shortly.

AMERICAN TRUST CO. IS IN NEW QUARTERS

Today the American Trust Co. is occupying its new banking quarters, which have been completed at a cost of $1,000,000. The building is located on the southeast corner of Washington and Summer streets, and is the first 20-story building erected in Boston since the Equitable Trust Co. moved into its present quarters.

The new bank occupies the first four stories of the building. The remaining floors are leased to the Equitable Trust Co. for investment purposes, and the rental is expected to more than offset the cost of maintenance and operation of the entire building.

Henry Ford On the World Court

Some Hard Common Sense From Detroit. But We Are Going In, Heaven Help Us!

In his Dearborn Independent Henry Ford publishes an editorial abut the proposal that this country should go into the League of Nations; a temperate, calm editorial. Read a few extracts from it. As you read, bear in mind that Henry Ford is the last man on earth to want war, or to inject anything that would offer a real chance of ending war.

HENRY FORD SAYS:

AMERICANS who favor the World Court really favor an idealist the form whom the electorate in the present World Court lost. Americans who say they favor the Court really mean they favor some article they have read or some lecture they have heard about it.

All of us favor a method which will substitute negotiation for war. All of us favor a method whereby the justice of a dispute may be separated from its passions. All of us favor the appeal to reason rather than the appeal to force.

Those things go without saying.

To assume that to favor these is the same as to favor the court is very much like assuming that to favor social justice is also to favor Bolshevism as a method of attaining it.

As a nation we favored the idea of a League of Nations, before we came to study the League of Nations that was offered us. We favored the idea—rejected the method of attaining it.

That League—or, as opponents have come to call it, the Court—we are asked to accept. The Law which that Court will enforce is Covenant of the League of Nations. The Court is the machinery of the league. The Constitution of that Court is the Covenant of the League Nations. It operates by its authority, its rules, its principles from the league.

Now we have a Constitution of our own. The Constitution of the United States of our supreme law. We have certain cherished principles of tested worth, as, for example, the Monroe Doctrine which extends to South America the same freedom from European interference as we ourselves enjoy.

The question is, are we ready to subjugate the Constitution of the United States to the covenant (or constitution) of the League?

Are we ready to place the Monroe Doctrine at the disposal of a European court whose principles run counter to it?

Are we ready to resign our decisions as to when, if ever, we shall fight to a court one of whose powers is to tell us when we must institute an economic boycott and when we must fight to enforce its decrees?

Have we as citizens, or has Congress as our representatives, or has the President as our Chief Magistrate, the right or the power to do any of these things? We think not.

We are told, of course, that none of these extreme uses of the Court's power would occur. Probably not; we would not permit them to occur. Which further deepens the doubt—for, why should our nation bow to powers, and acknowledge powers, and subscribe to powers which we would not for a moment permit to be used? Do we, as a nation, usually go into such agreements with our tongue in our cheek?

What we are most particular to impress is that the World Court is not bound by what the lecturer at the ladies' club says, nor by what the minister in his pulpit says; it is bound by what is written in the covenant of the League of Nations. And citizens should study the matter before committing themselves to sentiment and hearsay.

Hand that to your friends. Ask them what they think of it?

Answer for yourself the question that Henry Ford puts. Are we willing to put the Monroe Doctrine at the mercy of a European court?

Are we ready to let Europe decide for us when we must fight, when we must "institute an economic boycott" and when we must fight to enforce the decrees of that foreign court?

Mr. Ford asks this question: "Has the President, as our Chief Magistrate, or Congress the right or the power to do any of these things? We think not."

* * *

The people of the United States, a great majority of them, think on this subject as Henry Ford thinks.

All the Presidents of the United States have kept this country out of European entanglements, as George Washington advised.

No President and no Congress of the United States should have the right to subordinate our Constitution to the constitution of the League of Nations, to put our Supreme Court BELOW a European World Court or let Europe decide for us when we must go to war, when we must fight to carry out the decrees of a foreign court.

Bear in mind that the judges of that Court, outnumbering ours ten to one, would be bitterly hostile to the United States.

Bear in mind that the European nations, without exception, have accused this country of COWARDICE, because we did not go into the war sooner.

And they have accused us of base meanness because we did not lend them more money and of cupidity because we want them to pay back what they owe.

To go into the World Court means to go into the League of Nations through the back door.

To go into the World Court and so into the League of Nations means to put this nation at the mercy of countries and judges by whom it is bitterly hated.

To go into the World Court would be a crime against the United States. It is probably too late to do any good, but it is your duty to write to the President, to your Congressmen and to your two Senators and tell them what you think about it.

Munsey and the Cardinal

(Not Deserving Mention)

Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, one of the ablest and most powerful men in the Catholic Church, criticizes Frank A. Munsey's gift of his great fortune to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. He says that Frank Munsey appears to have forgotten the poor, among whom he was once included.

Mr. Munsey's gift to the art institution, to which he never contributed more than $10 in any one year, was a surprise to everybody. It meant, perhaps, lack of imagination.

Concerning the poor, Mr. Munsey had a feeling that the best way to help them was to encourage them to get out of poverty as he had done, by hard work.

As to his great fortune, he hardly knew WHAT to do with it while he was alive, and perhaps he found it hard to make up his mind what to do with it after his death.

He lived the greater part of the time in a hotel, his real life being in his working office. In death, perhaps, he wanted to know that his fortune would at least be in eminently respectable hands, serving an eminently respectable purpose. And that he accomplished when he gave the bulk of his great fortune to the trustees of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Mr. Munsey knew nothing of art, but he was distinctly in favor of it, or at least he was certain that it couldn't do any harm.

If you are inclined to imitate Frank Munsey and give money to a museum try the American MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY. It NEEDS money, and is an educational institution in the best sense of the word.

What is more, when the Museum of Natural History spends your money for a dinosaur, or a dinosaur egg, your money will buy a GENUINE DINOSAUR or dinosaur egg. You couldn't be quite too sure of that if your money were spent to buy a Rembrandt, or a Hals.

'Best Port on Either Coast'

(EQUIPMENT Up to Date, Thing for the Business?)

Whenever somebody urges that the Port of Boston is not getting a fair share of America's EXPORT business, Collector of the Port Wilfred W. Lufkin has a cheerful way of coming forward with encouraging observations about our rank as a place of IMPORT.

Other ports top us in the value of their exports, it is true, but only New York, the former Congressman reminds New Englanders, ranks us as a thriving point of entrance.

Imports last year reached a total value of $63,000,000, a "record" for the port, and at present amount to about $1,000,000 weekly. This is the largest raw wool market in all the world and wool makes up the bulk of our imports.

A few punchy sentences from Collector Lufkin will give all of us something to cheer about:

"Boston has the best harbor on either coast of the United States. Its channels are better, its piers and terminals bigger.

"The most modern terminals in the world are the Army Base and Commonwealth Pier.

"While, at one time, recently, eight ships were unloading at the Army Base, they utilized but one side of the pier and left room on that side for other vessels.

"Only at the Boston Drydock, in this hemisphere, is there room for the Majestic and the Leviathan."

Is everybody at the Custom House happy, then? Yes, and No. It is the duty of the Collector to size, keep in custody and eventually dispose of all rum seizures within his territory, just now a tremendous lot. Three great groups of public servants watch the rum-runner. First comes the Coast Guard, next the Customs service, and finally the prohibition enforcement units on land.

Prohibition HAS added greatly to the labors of the Customs men, and they want more pay. Collector Lufkin feels that they should have it.
